

6th China International Recycled Polyester Forum

15-17 Sep 2010

Jinling Jinma Hotel Hangzhou, Zhejiang, China

Invitation Letter

The 6th China International Recycled Polyester Forum is to be held during 15-17 Sep 2010. The conference is to provide valuable insights into dynamics of the polyester recycling chain, with fiber producers, traders, and suppliers of flake, equipment and finish-oil/accessory gathering together, to give opinions and exchange ideas about current market status and industry focuses:

◆ Low-carbon Concept

As an industry embracing the concept of low-carbon, recycling industry is attracting greater concern nowadays. To cope with requirements of cost-efficient and environment protection is not barely kind of a fashionable concept, but more importantly, it plays a key role in expanding overseas market and avoid trading barrier. It's time for players of the industry to comply with relevant policies and get themselves certificated in accordance to international standards.

◆ Development with Self-restraint

With total annual capacity in China expected to get close to 7 million ton in 2010, in sufficient flake supply is a major challenge. While flake prices kept firming, higher tax, energy costs and payment on workers are also bringing production costs higher. Tough there are more players seeking for higher technologies and value-added, they will remain vulnerable to polyester prices. Cooperation and self-restraint are still essential to the industry.

◆ Policies

With China government to pursue tight currency policy and RMB appreciation in store, combined with supportive policies for the industry expected to take effect, there will be challenges accompanied with opportunities.

Participants: Recycled fiber producers, traders, suppliers of flake, equipment and finish-oil/accessory
